Well, the Cornwall Virtual Games got off to a flying start this week with everyone in school and many of you at home joining in with the sporting activities each day. Thank you so much to all of you who sent in videos and photos of your families taking part in the fun and games, we loved the crazy costumes and the fact that the grown ups had a go too! The scores and points are all still being entered so if you haven't yet entered your scores for today then please get them in before 10am. The results will be available this evening on the Cornwall Sports Partnership website and we will let you know how Pencoys got on in next weeks newsletter.

You will remember that a few weeks ago we mentioned that a seagull had taken up residence on our school roof and appeared to have laid eggs.....Well this week we have seen a baby seagull hatch and have taken great delight in seeing the parents taking it in turns to feed the baby, who is getting braver by the day! Kayson in F2 has named the baby Henry and we are following its progress day by day.

A huge thank you to everyone who completed the Parent and Child Survey about the return to school in September. We are currently working very hard to plan what this will look like for the children and your feedback and suggestions have been incredibly helpful. I completely understand the frustrations around the uncertainty that still remains about what will happen, but please be reassured that we are doing everything possible to ensure that all children can return to school in September, in whatever way we can. Clearly, whatever we put in place is going to be subject to change depending on events over the next few months but we want to be able to provide as clear a picture as we can of what school will be like before we break up for the summer. Careful thought and consideration is being given, particularly to transition for children to their new classes and teachers and how best to support them with this. There will be more information to follow in the coming weeks.

Our F2 children will be receiving their school reports from Mr Hoswell at the end of next week. These will be sent via email, so please make sure that this address is up to date and inform the office if there has been a recent change.

We hope you have a wonderful weekend,
Keep in touch and stay safe,

Mrs Craig.
